Memorandum

To: Regional Directors
Assistant Director-Budget, Planning and Human Resources

From: Deputy Director Manuel A. Garcia

Subject: Appointment of New Supervisors

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's new Management Directive 715 requires government agencies to conduct a self assessment to determine how they compare to the model EEO program. The need to ensure that new supervisors are provided with a copy of the Service's Zero Tolerance Policy, upon promotion into their supervisory position, was identified as a result of the Service's self assessment.

Effective immediately, Regional Human Resources Officers are asked to ensure that all new supervisors are provided with copies of the Service's Zero Tolerance Policy. Please also provide them with copies of the Department's Reasonable Accommodations Policy and the Director's memorandum providing guidance on the Department's requirement for all managers and supervisors to complete 4 hours of equal employment opportunity and diversity training annually. The links to the two policies and the memorandum are as follows:

Memorandum

From Director
Title Revised Zero Tolerance Portal Message

The purpose of this important message is to reaffirm the Service's commitment to provide a workplace free of discrimination and harassment of any type, especially discrimination and harassment based on age, race, national origin, color, religion, gender, disability, and sexual orientation. Managers, supervisors and employees are expected to perform their duties in a manner which fosters a professional and discrimination-free environment, and will be held accountable to maintain such an environment. Please see National Policy Issuance #98-03, published on January 16, 1998 at http://policy.fws.gov/npi98_03.html.

Discrimination and harassment should be serious concerns to everyone because they dramatically affect the lives of victims and those around the victims. Significant losses are often suffered by victims in the form of damage to their health, career, finances, and morale. Discrimination and harassment also impact our ability to carry out the Service's mission by affecting our reputation, our ability to recruit and retain employees, and our focus on our goals.

Let us continue striving to make the Service a model employer which provides a high quality work environment free of discrimination, values and respects diversity, and leverages diversity in a way that all employees have opportunities to contribute equally to the mission and advance to their full potential.

Our mission is, working with others, to conserve, protect and enhance fish, wildlife, and plants and their habitats for the continuing benefit of the American people.

Memorandum

To: Assistant Secretaries
Solicitor
Inspector General
Heads of Bureaus and Offices

From: P. Lynn Scarlett
Assistant Secretary for Policy, Management and Budget

Subject: U.S. Department of the Interior Procedures for Handling Requests for Reasonable Accommodation for Individuals with Disabilities

It is the policy of the Department of the Interior to provide reasonable accommodations to employees and applicants with disabilities, pursuant to Section 501 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended (29 U.S.C. 791), the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) Regulations at 29 CFR Part 1614 (Federal Sector Equal Employment Opportunity), and EEOC Management Directive 715. This policy is in support of the government's national policy to expand employment opportunities for individuals with disabilities and to ensure compliance with anti-discrimination provisions.

In accordance with the above-mentioned Federal statutes and regulations, the attached Departmental procedures for handling requests for Reasonable Accommodation for Individuals with Disabilities were developed. The procedures were reviewed by EEOC and found to be in compliance with EEOC Policy Guidance on Executive Order 13164: Establishing Procedures to Facilitate the Provision of Reasonable Accommodation (October 20, 2000).

All Bureaus and Offices are expected to implement the Departmental procedures for handling requests for Reasonable Accommodation for Individuals with Disabilities. Bureaus and Offices should widely disseminate the procedures and ensure that all personnel become knowledgeable in handling requests for reasonable accommodation. The reasonable accommodation procedures should be integrated into existing training for managers and supervisors, as well as employees involved in the recruiting and hiring processes. A copy of the procedures should be accessible to all employees and applicants.

REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION FOR INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES

1. POLICY. In accordance with Section 501 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) Management Directive 715, and Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Regulations at 29 CFR Part 1614 (Federal Sector Equal Employment Opportunity), the U.S. Department of the Interior (DOI) will make reasonable accommodation for the known physical or mental limitations of a qualified employee or applicant with a disability unless the accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the DOI.

2. PURPOSE. This document provides a description of the DOI procedures for providing reasonable accommodations for individuals with disabilities by establishing requirements and providing instructions for acting on requests from employees or applicants.

3. APPLICABILITY. These procedures apply only to employees and applicants who have a disability as defined in 4.A below.

4. DEFINITIONS.

A. INDIVIDUAL WITH A DISABILITY is one who has a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities, has a record of such an impairment, or is regarded as having such an impairment.

B. PHYSICAL OR MENTAL IMPAIRMENT is any physiological disorder or condition, cosmetic disfigurement, or anatomical loss affecting one or more of the following body systems: neurological, musculoskeletal, special sense organs, cardiovascular, reproductive, digestive, respiratory, genitourinary, hemic and lymphatic, skin, and endocrine, or any mental or psychological disorder, such as mental retardation, organic brain syndrome, emotional or mental illness, and specific learning disabilities.

C. MAJOR LIFE ACTIVITIES are functions such as caring for one's self, performing manual tasks, walking, seeing, hearing, speaking, breathing, learning and working.

D. HAS A RECORD OF SUCH AN IMPAIRMENT is defined as having a history of, or being classified (or misclassified) as having, a mental or physical disability that substantially limits one or more major life activities.

E. REGARDED AS HAVING SUCH AN IMPAIRMENT is defined as having a physical or mental impairment that does not substantially limit major life activities, but is treated by an employer as constituting such a limitation; has a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits major life activities only as a result of the attitude of an employer toward such an impairment; or has none of the impairments defined above but is treated by an employer as having such a limitation.

F. A QUALIFIED INDIVIDUAL WITH A DISABILITY is one who satisfies the requisite skill, experience, education and other job-related requirements of the employment position such individual holds or desires, and who, with or without reasonable accommodation, can perform the essential functions of such position.

G. UNDUE HARDSHIP occurs if a specific type of reasonable accommodation causes significant difficulty or expense to accomplish. In such a case, that particular accommodation does not have to be provided. Determination of undue hardship is always made on a case-by-case basis, considering such factors that include the nature and cost of the reasonable accommodation needed and the impact of the reasonable accommodation on the organization. Overall resources of the DOI will be taken into consideration.

5. RESPONSIBILITIES.

A. THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR has designated the Director, Office of Civil Rights as the DOI management official responsible for ensuring that reasonable accommodations are made for all qualified employees and applicants with a disability.

B. THE DIRECTOR, OFFICE OF CIVIL RIGHTS is responsible for ensuring there is DOI-wide policy on reasonable accommodation (that is, ensuring that reasonable accommodations are made for qualified employees or applicants with a disability in accordance with applicable laws, regulations, and bargaining unit agreements) and for establishing DOI procedures to facilitate the provision of reasonable accommodation. The Director of Civil Rights will designate a Disability Program Manager who has administrative responsibility for the DOI-wide program.

C. THE DISABILITY PROGRAM MANAGER (DPM) is responsible for interpreting policy and providing guidance to Bureau/Office directors, managers, supervisors, employees, and applicants on matters related to reasonable accommodation. If the DPM has had any involvement with the processing of a request for reasonable accommodation, he/she must reclude him/herself from any involvement in the processing of an EEO claim in connection with that request.

D. THE SERVICING PERSONNEL OFFICER (PO) is responsible for providing operational personnel services to the Bureau/Office. The PO, or designated staff, serves as the employment officer and is responsible for conducting job analyses on vacancies to ensure that the knowledge, skills and abilities identified are related to the essential functions of the job, and that artificial barriers are removed from the hiring process. The PO is responsible for training Personnel Specialists who are involved in the application process to recognize requests for reasonable accommodation and handle them accordingly.

E. SUPERVISORS AND MANAGERS, Office Directors or designated staff, shall serve as the deciding officials on requests for reasonable accommodations. First-line supervisors are authorized to respond to, and make determinations on, requests for reasonable accommodation. These determinations will be made in consultation with appropriate management officials such as Facilities Managers, Information Resource Management Specialists, Physicians, Personnel Specialists or other individuals and organizations that can assist in determining appropriate accommodations. The supervisor/manager will serve as a liaison between the office and the Personnel Officer. All DOI supervisors and managers are responsible for ensuring that selections of qualified individuals with disabilities are made in a non-discriminatory manner and that the procedures for the reasonable accommodation of individuals with disabilities are implemented.

F. EMPLOYEES AND APPLICANTS are responsible for bringing their requests for reasonable accommodation to the attention of the appropriate official. A request for accommodation is a verbal or written statement that an individual needs an adjustment or a change at work or in the application process for a reason related to a medical condition. Additional information, as appropriate, may be obtained through the interactive process which follows the request. (Examples of means of reasonable accommodation are provided in Section 7).

6. GUIDELINES FOR ASSESSING AND PROVIDING REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION.

A. Overview. Reasonable accommodation is a logical change or adjustment to a job or worksite that makes it possible for otherwise qualified employees with disabilities to perform the essential functions of the position in question. The other two categories of reasonable accommodation: modifications or adjustments to a job application process to permit an individual with a disability to be considered for a job; and modifications or adjustments that enable employees with disabilities to enjoy equal benefits and privileges of employment.

1. Accommodations are determined on a case-by-case basis, taking into consideration the needs of the applicant or employee, his/her specific disability, the essential duties of the position in question, the work environment, and the reasonableness of the proposed accommodation.

2. In all cases where an accommodation request is not approved, the individual with a disability must be consulted before an alternative accommodation is provided. An accommodation must be work-related and not for personal needs or use such as providing eye glasses, hearing aids or transportation to work. The responsibility to provide reasonable accommodation does not end when the individual with a disability is placed in a position. The accommodation must also be considered in training, merit staffing processes, and any other aspect of employment that would be adversely affected if the Bureau/Office failed to provide reasonable accommodation.

B. Reasonable Accommodation Assessment. DOI Bureaus/Offices are required to make reasonable accommodation for a qualified individual with a disability unless it can be demonstrated that the accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the operation of DOI. Such a determination must be made on an individual basis. All alternatives will be explored to determine if the reasonable accommodation is the most effective one for both the individual with a disability and the Bureau/Office.

1. The first step in determining an appropriate accommodation after a request is received from a qualified individual with a disability is to review the accommodation requested to determine if it is reasonable. The reasonableness of the proposed accommodation means that the accommodation “seems reasonable on its face, i.e., ordinarily or in the run of cases,” “plausible,” or “feasible,” as defined by the Supreme Court in U.S. Airways v. Barnett, 535 U.S. 391 (2002). Furthermore, an accommodation must also be effective. An accommodation is effective if it meets the needs of the individual in question. In the context of job performance, this means that the reasonable accommodation enables the individual to perform the essential functions of the position. Similarly, a reasonable accommodation enables an applicant with a disability to have an equal opportunity to participate in the application process and be considered for the job. A reasonable accommodation allows an employee with a disability an equal opportunity to enjoy the benefits and privileges of employment that employees without disabilities enjoy. If it is determined that the requested accommodation is not “reasonable,” the supervisor or manager who made the determination must consult with the employee with the disability and ask for suggestions as to what accommodations would enable him/her to perform the essential functions of the job.

2. When providing auxiliary aids, the supervisor or manager should give preference to that requested by the individual with the disability, unless that which was requested constitutes an undue hardship.

3. Accommodations need to be made to the known physical or mental limitations. DOI Bureaus/Offices are not obligated to make an accommodation for a job interview, or for an existing job, until the applicant or employee has communicated his/her needs. Bureau/Office officials involved in the application process should ensure that vacancy announcements explain what the application process involves and indicate to whom interested parties should make requests for reasonable accommodation if needed for the application process. Managers and supervisors should review EEOC Enforcement Guidance on Reasonable Accommodation and Undue Hardship Under the Americans with Disabilities Act (revised October 17, 2002), Question 40, which describes a situation in which a supervisor might have to ask an employee if he/she needs a reasonable accommodation even if the employee does not communicate a need for one.

4. The value and nature of a particular accommodation may be clarified by considering the following questions:

- a. Is the accommodation necessary for the performance of essential duties?
- b. What effect will the accommodation have on the Bureau/Office's operation and the employee's job performance?
- c. To what extent does the accommodation compensate for the limitations of an employee with a disability?
- d. Will the accommodation give the employee the opportunity to function, participate, or compete on a more equal basis with co-workers?
- e. Are there alternatives that would accomplish the same purpose?

7. MEANS OF REASONABLE ACCOMMODATIONS.

Examples of the kinds of actions that may constitute reasonable accommodation are listed below. Reasonable accommodation may include, but shall not be limited to the following:

- A. Making facilities readily accessible to and usable by a person with a disability.
- B. Job restructuring, including part-time or modified work schedules.
- C. Acquisition or modification of equipment or devices.
- D. Appropriate adjustment or modification of examinations.
- E. Provision of readers and interpreters (See Appendix II).
- F. Accommodations for meetings, conferences, training and seminars.
- G. As a last resort, reassignment.

8. FACTORS IN DETERMINING UNDUE HARDSHIP.

A. The following are some factors that may be considered in determining whether an employee's or applicant's requested accommodation would impose undue hardship.

1. The overall size of the program with respect to the number of employees, number and type of facilities, and size of budget.
2. The type of operation, including composition and structure of the workforce.
3. The nature and cost of the accommodation.

B. The Bureau/Office, in identifying resources for providing reasonable accommodations, must exhaust all DOI sources of funding before rendering any determination that an accommodation presents an undue hardship. Further, the Bureau/Office may seek assistance through non-DOI sources (See Appendix IV).

9. ACTING ON REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION REQUESTS.

A. Initiating Request for Reasonable Accommodation. When an employee or applicant makes a request for reasonable accommodation, either on his/her own behalf, or through a family member, health professional, or other representative acting on the individual's behalf, the following requirements apply:

1. For an employee, the request may be made verbally or in writing to his/her supervisor, another supervisor or manager in his/her immediate chain of command, the Office Director, the Equal Employment Opportunity Office, the Disability Program Manager, the Servicing Personnel Office, or other appropriate office. An applicant makes his/her verbal or written request to the Servicing Personnel Office, the Equal Employment Opportunity Office, the Disability Program Manager, the interviewer from the office having the vacancy for which he/she wants to be considered, or any Bureau/Office employee with whom he/she has had contact. A verbal request for accommodation is deemed accepted when made. For record-keeping purposes only, the employee or applicant may also submit the request in writing. Otherwise, the request for accommodation will be documented by the individual to whom the request was made. (A sample confirmation of request for accommodation is provided at Appendix I.) The Bureau/Office must not wait until a written request or other recordkeeping form is received before processing a verbal request for reasonable accommodation.

2. The request must state, at a minimum, that the individual needs an adjustment or change at work or in the applicant process for a reason related to a medical condition.

3. DOI Bureaus/Offices must not require the requesting individual to use any particular words, as examples the Rehabilitation Act and the phrase "reasonable accommodation," when requesting reasonable accommodation.

4. If a requested accommodation is approved and is of the type that will be needed on a repeated basis (e.g., sign language interpreter), the individual does not have to submit an additional request each time the accommodation is needed. In such cases, the Bureau/Office must provide the accommodation on an as needed basis. The EEOC has issued federal sector decisions holding that in some circumstances where an individual has a recurring, predictable need for accommodation, the agency may be obligated to provide the accommodation as needed, whether or not the individual has requested it.

5. All requests for and provision of reasonable accommodations must be kept confidential.

Managers and supervisors should review EEOC Enforcement Guidance: Reasonable Accommodation and Undue Hardship Under the Americans With Disabilities Act (revised October 17, 2002), Question 42, which provides guidance on ways to respond to other employees' inquiries without violating confidentiality.

B. Timelines for Acting on Requests for Reasonable Accommodation.

1. Upon receipt of the request for reasonable accommodation, the official who received the request will forward it to the employee's supervisor/manager in no more than five (5) business days. The supervisor/manager must review the request and issue a written decision to the employee or applicant within ten (10) business days from when the supervisor/manager received the verbal or written request. The written decision must state whether the proposed accommodation will be made and include a specific description of the actions to be taken. After the issuance of a written decision to grant an accommodation, the deciding official will provide the accommodation within twenty (20) business days from the date the request was received by the deciding official absent such extenuating circumstances as described in B.4. below. In any event, the deciding official will keep the employee or applicant informed on delivery of the accommodation. Notwithstanding the timeframes authorized by these procedures, some accommodations can be provided in less time, and the failure to respond promptly to a request for reasonable accommodation may result in a violation of the Rehabilitation Act. In instances where reasonable accommodations can be provided in less time than prescribed in these procedures, Bureaus/Offices must make every effort to do so.

2. If medical documentation is required by the deciding official, he/she will issue a written decision to the employee in no more than ten (10) business days from the date the medical documentation was received. At the deciding official's option, medical information submitted in connection with a request for reasonable accommodation may be reviewed by a DOI medical officer, who will provide an advisory opinion to the deciding official. The Bureau/Office also has the right to have medical information provided by the employee or applicant reviewed, at the organization's expense, by a medical expert of the organization's choosing. DOI Bureaus/Offices must not request medical documentation in support of every accommodation request, regardless of circumstances.

3. Pursuant to the Privacy Act, medical documentation submitted in support of any request for reasonable accommodation will be sealed and maintained in secure storage, separate from Official Personnel Files, by the Servicing Personnel Office. In addition, individuals who have access to information necessary to make a decision about whether to grant a requested accommodation may not disclose this information except as follows:

- a. supervisors/managers who need to know may be told about necessary restrictions on the work or duties of the employee and about the necessary accommodation(s);
- b. first aid and safety personnel may be told if the disability might require emergency treatment;
- c. government officials may be given information necessary to investigate DOI Bureaus/Offices' compliance with the Rehabilitation Act;
- d. the information may in certain circumstances be disclosed to workers' compensation offices or insurance carriers;

e. EEO officials may be given the information to maintain records, evaluate and report on Bureaus/Offices' performance.

Where medical information is disclosed to any of the foregoing officials, Bureau/Office officials must inform those individuals about the confidentiality requirements attached to such information.

4. Extenuating circumstances may delay the provision of reasonable accommodation within the stated time frame. Extenuating circumstances are factors that could not reasonably have been anticipated or avoided in advance of the request for accommodation. These can include, but are not limited to, situations in which equipment must be back ordered, the vendor typically used by the organization has unexpectedly gone out of business, or the accommodation requires restructuring facilities. Every attempt must be made to process requests for reasonable accommodation in as short of a time as possible.

5. The supervisor/manager, Office Director, or designee, who is responsible for making a decision on a request for accommodation will identify him/herself as the deciding official to the employee or applicant and consider the following in determining whether an accommodation can be provided:

- a. the employee's or applicant's specific disability and existing limitations;
- b. the essential duties of the particular job;
- c. the work environment; and
- d. whether the proposed accommodation would result in undue hardship for the organization.

6. The supervisor/manager, Office Director, or designee, must confer with the employee or applicant where the specific limitation, problem, or barrier is unclear, where an effective accommodation is not obvious, or where the parties are choosing between different possible reasonable accommodations. Information about reasonable accommodations, including telephone help for identifying specific reasonable accommodations, is at Appendix IV.

7. The supervisor/manager, Office Director, or designee, may consult with other management officials, such as Facilities Managers, Information Resource Management Specialists, Physicians, Personnel Specialists or the Disability Program Manager to process requests for reasonable accommodation, if necessary.

8. When necessary, expedited processing of a request for an accommodation should occur. Expedited processing might be necessary where the accommodation is needed to apply for a position or to participate in a specific activity that is scheduled to occur shortly. Failure to respond promptly to a request for reasonable accommodation, especially in those situations where the accommodation could be provided in an expedited manner, may result in a violation of the Rehabilitation Act.

9. If there is either a delay in processing a request for reasonable accommodation, or after a request is approved, a delay in delivering the accommodation, the deciding official must notify the employee or applicant of the reason for the delay, and to the extent possible, keep the employee or applicant informed of the date on which the request is expected to be completed. In the event of such a delay, the supervisor/manager, or deciding official, must investigate whether there are temporary measures that could be taken to assist the individual with a disability.

10. Supervisors and managers are strongly encouraged to implement practices that will reduce barriers that could make it difficult to provide effective accommodations. Possible practices include: establishing a central pool of readers and interpreters, and implementing funding mechanisms that will avoid charging individual offices for the cost of accommodations. (See EEOC Policy Guidance on Executive Order 13164: Establishing Procedures to Facilitate the Provision of Reasonable Accommodation (October 20, 2000), Question 12, available on EEOC's website).

11. Each Bureau/Office is reminded that it should take steps to anticipate and limit impediments that may cause unnecessary delay in providing reasonable accommodation, by reviewing and modifying, in advance of a specific request, any policies that might affect the Bureau/Office's ability to respond promptly to requests for reasonable accommodation. Among the policies that should be reviewed are those that affect: the purchasing or leasing of equipment; the hiring of, or contracting for, readers, interpreters, or other assistants; and the flexibility to approve leave or to restructure work schedules. (See EEOC Policy Guidance on Executive Order 13164: Establishing Procedures to Facilitate the Provision of Reasonable Accommodation (October 20, 2000), Question 15, available on EEOC's website).

C. Requesting Medical Information.

1. The deciding official may request medical information sufficient to substantiate that the individual has a disability and needs reasonable accommodation, but must not request medical documentation where:

- a. the disability and need for accommodation are obvious or otherwise already known; or
- b. the individual has already provided DOI with sufficient information to document the existence of the disability and his/her functional limitations.

Requests for medical information will follow the requirements set forth in the EEOC's Enforcement Guidance: Disability-Related Inquiries and Medical Examinations of Employees Under the Americans with Disabilities Act (July 27, 2000), available on EEOC's website.

2. When the standards for requesting medical information have been met (1.a. and 1.b. above), the deciding official may request information or documentation regarding:

- a. the nature, severity, and duration of the individual's impairment;
- b. the activities that the impairment limits;
- c. the extent to which the impairment limits the individual's ability to perform the activities; and/or
- d. why the individual requires reasonable accommodation or the particular reasonable accommodation requested, as well as how the reasonable accommodation will assist the individual to apply for a job, perform the essential functions of the job, or enjoy a benefit of the workforce.

3. The deciding official has the right to request relevant supplemental medical information only if the initial medical documentation submitted did not clearly explain the nature of the disability, or the need for the reasonable accommodation, or did not otherwise clarify how the requested accommodation will assist the employee to perform the essential functions of the job or to enjoy the benefits and privileges of the workplace, or, in the case of an applicant, assist him/her with the application process. If relevant supplemental medical information is requested, the deciding official must explain to the employee or applicant why the documentation already submitted was insufficient and identify the medical documentation still needed.

4. If the employee or applicant is still unable to provide sufficient information in support of the request, the deciding official may request that the individual be examined by a healthcare professional of the organization's choice and at the organization's expense. Any such medical examination must be limited to determining the existence of a disability and/or the functional limitations that require an accommodation. Where a medical examination is warranted, the deciding official must explain to the individual that failure to agree to take the medical examination could result in a denial of the accommodation.

D. Reassignment. Reassignment is a "last resort" form of reasonable accommodation that must be provided, absent undue hardship, to an employee who, because of a disability, can no longer perform the essential functions of the position he/she holds, with or without reasonable accommodation. Reassignment is available only to employees, not to applicants. Reassignment may be made only to a vacant position. The law does not require that agencies create new positions or move employees from their jobs in order to create a vacancy.

1. If the deciding official determines that no reasonable accommodation will enable the employee to perform the essential functions of his/her position, the deciding official must, in consultation with the employee, consider reassignment of the employee to a vacant funded position for which he/she is qualified. The determination on qualifications will be made by the Office Director, or designee, in consultation with the Servicing Personnel Officer. If any such position(s) is identified, a determination will be made as to whether the employee would need an accommodation to perform in any such position.

2. Reassignment to a vacant funded position may occur first within the Bureau/Office and geographical area where the employee is already employed. In the event a position can not be found in the employee's current Bureau/Office and geographical area, a suitable position may be identified in a different Bureau/Office within the employee's current geographical area. In the event a position can not be found within the employee's current geographical area, a suitable position may be identified in a different geographical area, regardless of Bureau/Office, provided the employee has indicated the new geographical location is acceptable to him/her.

3. If an employee is reassigned to a different geographical area, the employee must pay for any relocation expenses unless the transferring Bureau/Office routinely pays such expenses when granting voluntary transfers to other employees. If the employee is willing to be reassigned to a different geographical area, the Office Director, or designee, shall confer with the Servicing Personnel Officer in that geographical area to determine whether the employee is qualified for any particular position(s) available in that area. If any such position(s) is identified, a determination will be made as to whether the employee would need an accommodation to perform in any such position. If a suitable position is identified in another geographical area which the employee has indicated is acceptable, and the needed accommodation is found to be reasonable, such position must be offered to the employee.

E. Denial of Request for Reasonable Accommodation.

1. A decision denying a request for reasonable accommodation must be in writing and specifically explain the reasons why the request was denied (e.g. why the medical documentation was inadequate to establish that the individual has a disability or needs reasonable accommodation, why the requested accommodation would not be effective, or why the accommodation would pose an undue hardship).

2. A decision denying the proposed accommodation but offering an alternate accommodation in its place, must explain both the reason for the denial of the requested accommodation and the reason that the alternate accommodation will be effective.

3. All denials of reasonable accommodation must be reviewed by the Servicing Personnel Officer, or designee, prior to issuance. If the issue is availability of resources for the proposed accommodation, then the Office Director, or designee, will seek assistance from all sources (DOI as well as non-DOI) in determining the availability of additional resources prior to issuance of denial.

4. A written copy of each denial of reasonable accommodation will be provided to the employee and the Servicing Personnel Office. The written notice of denial must inform the individual that if he/she believes that he/she has been subjected to illegal discrimination, he/she has the right to file a Complaint of Discrimination, in accordance with 29 CFR 1614. In addition, the individual may have rights to pursue his/her claim with the Merit Systems Protection Board (MSPB) or the negotiated grievance procedures. The notice will explain procedures available for reconsideration.

10. RECONSIDERATION.

A. Individuals with disabilities can request prompt reconsideration of a denial of reasonable accommodation.

B. If an individual wishes reconsideration, he/she should first ask the deciding official to reconsider the decision. The individual may present additional information in support of his/her request. The deciding official must respond to the request for reconsideration within five (5) business days of receipt of the request.

C. If the deciding official does not reverse his/her decision, the individual may ask the Office Director, or designee, to do so. The Office Director, or designee, must respond to this request within ten (10) business days of receipt.

D. If the deciding official was the Office Director or designee, and he/she did not reverse the decision, the individual may ask the next level of management within the organization, or his/her designee, to do so. Such requests must be responded to within ten (10) business days of receipt.

E. Alternate dispute resolution (ADR) processes may also be used to resolve disputes of denials of reasonable accommodation. Whether under the EEO process, MSPB process, grievance process, or informal dispute resolution processes, where available, the objective is to permit quick and thoughtful reconsideration of a denial.

F. Pursuing any of the reconsideration procedures identified above, including seeking reconsideration from the deciding official, appealing to the next level of management within the organization and participating in informal dispute resolution process, does not affect the time limits for initiating statutory and collective bargaining claims. An individual's participation in any or all informal dispute resolution processes does not satisfy the requirements for bringing a claim under EEO, MSPB, or negotiated grievance procedures.

11. INFORMATION TRACKING AND REPORTING.

A. The deciding official must complete the "Information Reporting Form" (Appendix III) and submit it to the Bureau/Office Servicing Personnel Office within 10 business days of the decision. The deciding official must attach to the form copies of all information he/she received as part of processing the request. Medical documents must be sealed, marked as Confidential Medical Information, and maintained in secure storage by the Servicing Personnel Office. Such medical documents will not be kept with the employee's Official Personnel Folder. Such medical documents may only be reviewed by a DOI official who is involved in making a determination concerning a subsequent request by the employee for an accommodation to his/her disability when the disability and need for accommodation are not obvious or otherwise already known, or to the Bureau/Office EEO officials responsible for preparing the report listed in 11.C. below.

B. The Bureau/Office Servicing Personnel Office must maintain these records for the length of the employee's tenure with DOI or for five (5) years, whichever is longer.

C. The Bureau/Office EEO official will prepare an annual report, to be made available to the DOI, Office for Equal Opportunity. The report will contain the following information, presented in aggregate:

1. the number of reasonable accommodations, by type, that have been requested in the application process and whether those requests have been granted or denied;

2. the jobs (occupational series, grade level, and office) for which reasonable accommodations have been requested;

3. the types of reasonable accommodations that have been requested for each of those jobs;

4. the number of reasonable accommodations, by type, for each job that have been approved, and the number of accommodations, by type, that have been denied;

5. the number of requests for reasonable accommodations, by type, that relate to the benefits or privileges of employment, and whether those requests have been granted or denied;

6. the reasons for denial of requests for reasonable accommodation;

7. the amount of time taken to process each request for reasonable accommodation; and

8. the sources of technical assistance that have been consulted in trying to identify possible reasonable accommodations.

D. In addition, the report will provide a qualitative assessment of the Bureau/Office's reasonable accommodation program, including any recommendations for program improvement or changes in the reasonable accommodation policies and procedures.

E. The DOI, Office of Civil Rights shall prepare an aggregate report making such information available to all DOI employees. The report will be published on the DOI website.

F. The DOI, Office of Civil Rights shall retain for at least three (3) years, and be able to provide to the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, information or any cumulative records used to prepare said annual report which tracks DOI's performance with regard to reasonable accommodation. Tracking performance over a three-year period is critical to enable an agency to assess whether it has adequately processed and provided accommodations.

CONFIRMATION OF REQUEST FOR REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION

When the disability and need for accommodation are not obvious or already known, please describe the disability and need for reasonable accommodation.

I hereby request an accommodation for the stated disability. (Be as specific as possible concerning the accommodation being requested, e.g., adaptive equipment, reader, interpreter.)

If accommodation is time sensitive, please explain:

Signature: _____ Date: _____

Office: _____

Position: _____ Title: _____ Series: _____ Grade: _____

UTILIZING SIGN LANGUAGE INTERPRETERS

1. SCHEDULING INTERPRETER SERVICES. The individual or office scheduling a meeting or event which will require interpreting services (staff meeting, training, office function, etc.) is responsible for arranging for presence of interpreters. Currently, most DOI Bureau/Offices meet interpreter needs for employees by contracting for such services.

An employee who knows sign language or who is taking a sign language class is not an acceptable substitute for an interpreter.

2. WORK EVENTS OUTSIDE THE WORKPLACE. Bureau/Offices will provide an interpreter for an employee who is hearing impaired and who, as part of their job, attends a DOI meeting or event outside of the workplace. If the employee attends a conference or training program sponsored by an outside organization, the sponsoring organization is principally responsible for providing interpreters. DOI will provide interpreters, however, if the sponsoring organization fails to do so.

The EEOC's Publication Center has many free documents on the Title I employment provisions of the ADA, including both the statute, 42 U.S.C. 12101 et seq., and the regulations, 29 C.F.R. 1630. In addition, the EEOC has published a great deal of basic information about reasonable accommodation and undue hardship. The three main sources of interpretive information are (1) the Interpretive Guidance accompanying the Title 1 regulations (also known as the "Appendix" to the regulations), 29 C.F.R. pt. 1630 app. 1630.2(o), (p), 1630.9; (2) Enforcement Guidance on Reasonable Accommodation and Undue Hardship Under the Americans with Disabilities Act, <http://www.eeoc.gov/policy/docs/accommodation.html/>; and (3) A Technical Assistance Manual on the Employment Provisions (Title I) of the Americans with Disabilities Act, http://www.eeoc.gov/policy/docs/adamanual_add.html/. The Technical Assistance Manual includes a 200-page Resource Directory, including federal and state agencies and disability organizations, that can provide assistance in identifying and locating reasonable accommodations.

The EEOC also has discussed issues involving reasonable accommodation in the following guidance and documents: (1) Enforcement Guidance: Pre-employment Disability-Related Questions and Medical Examinations; (2) Enforcement Guidance: Workers' Compensation and the ADA; (3) Enforcement Guidance: The Americans with Disabilities Act and Psychiatric Disabilities; (4) Fact Sheet on the Family and Medical Leave Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964; and (5) Enforcement Guidance: Disability-Related Inquiries and Medical Examinations of Employees Under the Americans with Disabilities Act.

All of the above-listed documents, with the exception of the Technical Assistance Manual are also available through the Internet at <http://www.eeoc.gov/policy/guidance.html/>. Memorandum

From Director
Title EEO/Diversity Training

As a reminder, all supervisors and managers are required to take a minimum of four hours of EEO and/or diversity training each fiscal year. The training should be in a wide variety of EEO and Diversity subjects, especially the more technical areas such as disability accommodations, interviewing and hiring, and accessibility. Supervisors and Managers should ensure that they obtain sufficient training, even if it is more than 4 hours annually, so that they can effectively perform their supervisory/managerial duties.

The purpose of this email is to announce the creation of a new resource designed to answer questions that supervisors and managers may have regarding this mandatory training requirement. NCTC and the Division of Human Resources recently collaborated to create a website which answers the following questions regarding your EEO and Diversity training requirement :

- What Counts Towards this Training Requirement ?
- Are there Subjects that are Highly Recommended for Training ?
- Where do I go if I want Training ?
- How do I Report my Training Once I have Completed it ?

This website can be found at <http://training.fws.gov/led/eeodiversity/index.htm>. The use of the site is encouraged, and it is important to contact your Diversity and Civil Rights staff, as well as your Human Resources staff, with any specific questions which you may have regarding EEO or Diversity issues. Please step up to your commitment in these areas. Let us make strides this year toward ensuring that the Service becomes a model employer in all respects.

Our mission is, working with others, to conserve, protect and enhance fish, wildlife, and plants and their habitats for the continuing benefit of the American people.
